SPINK & SON'S GALLERIES

5, 6 & 7, KING STREET, ST JAMES'S,
LONDON, S.W.1.

IN response to numerous requests we have gathered together in these pages a little representative collection of Chinese carvings prior to the 19th Century.

Two out of the ten series now touched upon,—jade and lacquer,—have been previously dealt with in separate brochures. As, however, none of the present objects has been illustrated before we feel sure that whatever may be lost by this collective treatment will be more than regained in the opportunity presented of comparing the one series with the other and seeing how, though expressed in materials differing as widely as jade and ivory, lapis-lazuli and amber, that divine spark which animated all those old masters burns undimmed, whatever the medium employed.

And what an atmosphere of quiet restfulness and lasting pleasure such true Art brings in these days of stress and change.
